BankRI Hires Joelle Moyer as Senior Vice President, Commercial Banking

PROVIDENCE, R.I. – Bank Rhode Island (BankRI) has grown its business banking division, hiring Joelle Moyer as Senior Vice President, Commercial Banking. Moyer joins the bank's commercial lending team, where she will support the growth and long-term success of local businesses.

In her role, Joelle manages an existing portfolio of clients and focuses on developing new business relationships within the local market. She offers a full range of commercial banking services, including financing solutions, lending, and cash and deposit management, tailoring each to meet the individualized needs of her clients.

The hiring of Joelle reflects BankRI's continued investment in experienced financial professionals who share its dedication to supporting the local economy and helping businesses thrive.

"Joelle's track record for building strong relationships and delivering customized banking services makes her a tremendous resource for our customers and a great addition to our team," said Will Tsonos, President and CEO, BankRI. "Her approach reflects the values that define our bank—personalized service, trusted partnerships, and a deep commitment to local business. We're pleased to have her."

Prior to joining BankRI, Joelle was SVP, Business Banking Sr. Client Manager, with Bank of America. She holds a degree in mathematics from State University of New York, and earned her MBA in Finance from Bryant University.

Joelle is a resident of Cranston and active in the community through her work with Habitat for Humanity and the Rhode Island Community Food Bank.
