BankRI Names Theresa Amaral-Gosselin Branch Manager of East Side Office

Cranston resident to lead location on Pitman Street after managing BankRI's Lincoln Branch

PROVIDENCE, R.I. – Bank Rhode Island (BankRI) is pleased to announce that Theresa Amaral-Gosselin has been named Branch Manager of its East Side location in Providence. She assumes the leadership role of the office located at 137 Pitman Street following three years managing BankRI's Lincoln branch and a year serving as Assistant Branch Manager in its Downtown Providence office.

As Branch Manager, Amaral-Gosselin will oversee the banking and lending needs of existing and new business and personal banking customers in addition to managing all of the branch's daily operations. She will also serve as a support trainer to the branch's team of financial professionals while maintaining BankRI's active involvement in the local community.

"Our East Side branch has an extremely loyal customer base and we are pleased to have Theresa bring her experience and expertise to one of our busiest locations; one that also features a larger staff and extended hours," said Steven Parente, Senior Vice President, Director of Retail Banking for BankRI. "Above all, Theresa's high level of providing customer service and ability to meet the varying financial needs of those we serve will be an asset to all of our customers."

A resident of Cranston, Theresa has completed courses at the Community College of Rhode Island, Providence College, and the Rhode Island School of Design. She is active in the community through volunteering with both the Community College of Rhode Island's Academic Decathlon and BankRI's annual Holiday Giving Tree program.
